DAUGHERTY IS STANDING PAT ON STATEMENT

Former Attorney General Not Perturbed by Gaston Means' Denial.

DECIDES TO AMPLIFY IT

Tells Newspaper Men There Is Nothing to Be Made Public Except Letter to John W. Davis; Altered Means Statement Calls Testimony Lies.

By United Press.
COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 22.—Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, who leaped back into the headlines over the weekend, was quietly watching the excitement. He received newspaper men cordially but refused to give them a formal statement other than to say that copies of his open letter to John W. Davis and Gaston E. Means' repudiation are true.

"I stand on what I have given out," Daugherty said. He declined to answer questions regarding the whereabouts of the original Means document but friends indicated it was in Washington.

After distributing copies of his letter to Davis and the alleged Means repudiation late Saturday Daugherty left for Mount Sterling, Ohio, where he spent Sunday with friends. Returning to Columbus this morning he learned that Means in Washington had denied repudiation of his testimony but apparently Daugherty was not the least perturbed by this information.

On Easy Gay street, only a few blocks from Daugherty's Columbus home is the apartment of Miss Roxie Stinson, divorced wife of the late Jess Smith, and herself a prominent witness in the Senate investigation of the Department of Justice. As a result of the alleged statement of Means that her testimony was "a tissue of lies" Miss Stinson also was receiving reporters and told them that she had not been coerced to testify at all and that her testimony "was voluntary and true."

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 22.—Repudiation as a "tissue of lies" of all that he told the Senate committee in its investigation of the administration of Harry M. Daugherty as attorney general has been made in a signed statement by Gaston E. Means, former Department of Justice agent and star witness for the Daugherty investigators, according to a copy of a statement made public at his home here Sunday by Mr. Daugherty.

The Means statement was incorporated in a letter sent by Mr. Daugherty to John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee for President, in which the former attorney general takes the presidential nomination to task for statements which the Daugherty letter says Davis has made in the course of an address over the country, "suggesting improper conduct by me in my official capacity." The letter was dated September 19.

United States Senator Burien K. Wheeler, prosecutor of the committee, now vice-presidential candidate on the LaFollette ticket, is charged in the Means statement with having "put this tissue of lies" into the mouths of Means "and the majority of other witnesses."

"These witnesses and myself were persuaded to make false statements," continues the Means statement, "by Senator Wheeler under threat of indictment in some charge, and by promises of gain, and did in others." ("The testimony given before the Wheeler committee by Roxie Stinson, R. Nomand and myself and the majority of the other witnesses was nothing but a tissue of lies put in the mouths of these witnesses by Senator Wheeler, primarily to confound and discredit the Department of Justice and the administration," the Means statement declares.)

Parking All Night On Street Placed Under Police Ban

In order to break up the habit of automobile owners parking their cars on the streets, police have been instructed to place red tags on all machines standing along the curbs of any street in the city after 10 o'clock in the morning without having lights burning.

Twenty-seven car owners went to their machines this morning to find the little rag tag notifying them to take to the police station. Parking all night will not be permitted for various reasons it is said. Cars without lights are frequently the cause of wrecks, the street sweeper cannot clean thoroughly because of them and they too often present an easy opportunity for theft.

Seven vagrants held.

Seven vagrants were given a hearing before Alderman Fred Munk this morning but were held pending further investigation. They were: Martin Gastineau, D. E. Flowers, Ray Smith, W. K. Keeler, John Gair, Cain Blackstock and Edward Hall.

Two vagrants were arraigned for train riding but were dismissed upon re-call of transportation.

MINISTER CONFESSES HE PLACED ARSENIC IN WIFE'S COFFEE TO END SUFFERING

Rev. Lawrence H. Hight Also Admits Poisoning Wilford Sweetin; His Friend.

PLEADS HE WAS INSANE

By United Press.

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Sept. 22.—Rev. Lawrence H. Hight, middle-aged pastor of Imo, a village 10 miles south of here, confessed today to poisoning his wife, Mrs. North Sweetin, whom he then abandoned. After an all-night grilling Hight admitted placing arsenic in his wife's coffee. Later he admitted poisoning the water which he gave to Sweetin while he was ill. Rev. High, circuit rider pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church for Imo and five surrounding towns, said he wanted to put his wife "out of her suffering" and that he poisoned Sweetin for the same reason.

The minister continued to deny there was anything between himself and his victim's pretty widow. He attributed the murder to temporary insanity.

Coroner Jesse Recco, who started the investigation following the death of Mrs. Hight September 12, last Sunday received telegram from Dr. W. D. McNally of Chicago announcing that arsenic had been found in the organs of the exhumed body of Sweetin who died July 28. McNally last week reported discovery of arsenic in the viscera of Mrs. Hight.

The pastor, arrested last Thursday and held without bond for the grand jury for the murder of his wife, was taken to the office of Sheriff Holcomb last night and questioned. He stoutly maintained his innocence but just before dawn State Attorney Thompson adopted a pliable attitude, expressing sympathy for the pastor and his family. He urged the pastor to get the guilt off his mind. This line of argument was repeated for an hour and then Hight wrote out his statement, signed by the officials, confessing the murder of his wife. The statement follows:

"I hoy make the following statement of my own free will and voluntarily, regardless of whether or not it may be hereafter used against me:

"While grief stricken because of the illness of my wife, Anna Hight, I put arsenic in her coffee to relieve her pain while Mrs. Lucy Lour and my daughter, Mildred Hight, were in the kitchen of my home at Imo, Ill., on September 10, 1924. My sole purpose was to ease her of pain in her dying moments."

(Pictures of the principals in the poisoning case will be found on Page 10.)

—Wipe a three pound
fillet of beef and brown it in a hot frying pan over a high fire for half an hour. Remove to a hot serving dish and garnish with a cupful each of sauteed carrots and peas and a cupful of fresh mushrooms that have been cooked in butter five minutes. Serve with:

Mushroom Sauce.—Cook the stems of the mushrooms in cold water to cover until the flavor is removed; chop the mushrooms with one cupful of cream sauce well and cook in butter for a few minutes. To the mushroom sauce add a cupful of chicken stock, thicken with three tablespoonsfuls of flour cooked with two tablespoonsfuls of butter and add the mushroom stems.

Swedish Cabbage.—Boil until tender a dozen large leaves of cabbage. Drain and fill with the following:

Chop a pound of round steak; add salt, pepper, parsley, a clove of garlic, a tablespoonful or two of cream and three tablespoonsfuls of bread crumbs. Roll the leaves around a spoonful of the mixture and drop into a pint of soup stock. Place in a hot oven and baste often while cooking. The garlic may be placed in the stock or used to rub the pan if the flavor is not well liked. Remove the strings before serving.

Poopy Seed Salad.—Grate a little

WOMEN CLEAR OVER $1,000 SERVING AT THE DAWSON FAIR

All Receipts of Presbyterian Organization During Four Days Are $1,037.70.

PICTURE DRAWS CROWD

Special to The Courier.
VANDERBILT, Sept. 22.—The Earl Liberty Presbyterian Church, during the dining room at the Dawson Fair, and conducting a stand on the outside, reported a clean profit of $1,627.75. The gross receipts for the four days at the fair totalled $1,882.12, including donations. Of this amount, $843.33 went to cover expenses. Exclusive of the persons fed by the outside stand, 1,822 persons were given meals in the dining room. The kitchen work as well as the dining room was gratis, being done by the church members.

Church Filled for Picture.

Dr. J. F. Hartman of Pittsburgh presented the six-reel film, "Let Us Forget," to an overflow gathering at James Cochran Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church last evening. The crowd was one of the largest in the church during Rev. C. H. Beall's pastorate. The picture was presented in cooperation with the Anti-Saloon League.

Scouts Meet Tonight.

The Boy Scout troop No. 3 will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the chapel of James Cochran Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church. Regular training in manual and signaling will be given.

Orchestra Organized.

The Royal Serenaders Orchestra has been organized. It is managed by Dorsey Arnett and is composed of five pieces. The manager himself, plays a violin. Elmer Moon is pianist; Noble Arnett plays traps and drums; John Young, cornet. Harry Miller is banjoist. The orchestra gave a concert sometime ago in the Lester Theatre. Daily rehearsals are being held.

Returns from U. S. Tour.

Peter Lewis recently returned home after touring the United States for a period of two and one-half years. During this time, Peter visited nearly every state in the union, Mexico and Canada. Leaving in August, 1922, he began his journey by going through the southern states. He returned touring the northern states.

500 Club Meets.

The Five Hundred Club was in session Saturday evening at the home of Y. H. Edwards of Greenfield Street. The regular business was followed by a social hour. Refreshments were served.

Lights Go Out.

The electric lights went out twice last night. The first time, current was shut off at 8:30 o'clock, lasting until 8:45. At 8:50 the second time the current was turned off, for about five minutes.

On Business at Allison.

Peter G. Ahale, president of the Vanderbilt Athletic Club, and Robert Burns were transacting business at Allison yesterday. In his determination to play a series for the county championship, Ahale is busily rounding up teams for elimination contests.

Ball Game On.

The baseball game scheduled for this evening between the Divad Independents and Whitbeck has been postponed on account of rain.

Baseballers Play Saturday.

The Dickerson Run railroad ball club will clash with the McKees Rocks club nine at McKees Rocks Saturday afternoon in the third game of the series. Each team is credited with a win, the locals defeating the Rockers in the first and defeating them in the second. Youngstown, Ohio, at the railroad cutting. The local officials are trying to book a game for Wednesday. Monongahela was scheduled to appear here September 18 but the game was postponed because of rain, and the officials are trying to book the game for this week.

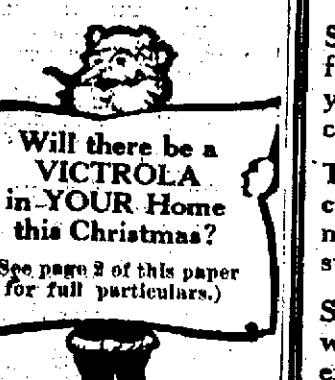

Personal.

Misses Mary Lewis and Anna Macata of Connellsville were calling on friends and relatives here yesterday. Miss Mary Macata of Youngstown, Ohio, returned to her home after spending a week with friends and relatives.

Edward Stricker of Alida spent the weekend with his family. Louis Stover was a caller in Uniontown last evening.

Had to Do It.

Miss Thirty-Odd (wrathfully)—That Jack Gayley is too mean to live. Her Friend—What's he done now? Miss Thirty-Odd—He proposed to me last night, and when I blushed and stammered that it was so sudden, the wretched burst out laughing and I was obliged to haughtily reject his proposal to save my self-respect.

The Most Efficient and the Most Economical Gas Heater You can Buy for Your Home!

The genuine HUMPHREY Radiantfire—made by the GENERAL GAS LIGHT COMPANY—is the famous Gas Heater that has established new, high standards for heating efficiency.

It is fitted with a wonderful new safety burner that produces high flame temperature and intensified combustion. That's why the HUMPHREY will flood your Home with glowing, radiant heat almost instantly after lighting.

And because this heat comes in contact with the lace-like heating elements, it becomes further intensified—making the radants glow and become intensely hot.

Then, too, the HUMPHREY Radiantfire operates so economically and so efficiently that there is absolutely no unburnt gas and consequently there are no odors or dirt as produced by the ordinary Gas Heaters.

It will give you the greatest joy and comfort you have ever had in your Home and at the same time save firing your furnace for three months in the year.

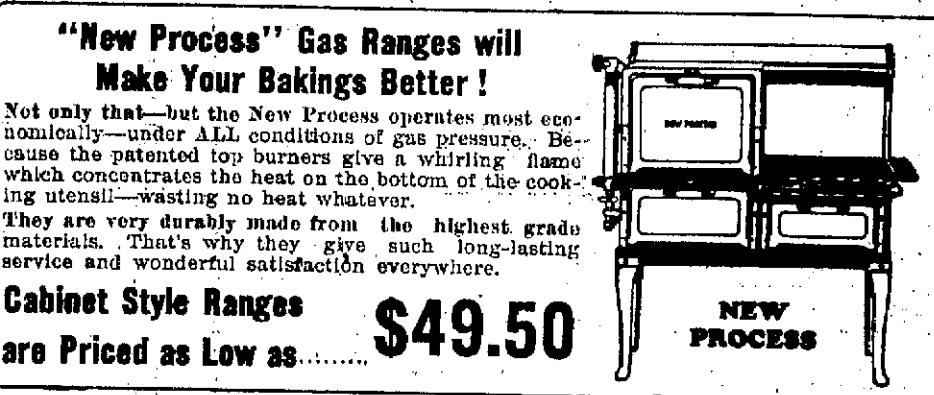

Costs Less Than One Cent an Hour to Operate!

And not only does the HUMPHREY Radiantfire operate most economically—but it will give you from 4 to 6 times more heat than any other Gas Heater—insuring the greatest amount of heat at the lowest possible cost for fuel.

A Special Factory Representative Will be Here!

Come in and let him explain to you fully just why the HUMPHREY Radiantfire operates so economically! Our showing is so complete—includes so many different styles and sizes—that you can suit your particular needs and requirements exactly.

"New Process" Gas Ranges will Make Your Bakings Better!

Not only that—but the New Process operates most economically—under ALL conditions of gas pressure. Because the patented top burners give a whirling flame which concentrates the heat on the bottom of the cooking utensil—wasting no heat whatever. They are very durably made from the highest grade materials. That's why they give such long-lasting service and wonderful satisfaction everywhere.

IMPROVEMENT GETTING UNDER WAY.

The slow but gradual increase in traffic on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and other railroads serving the Connellsville region reflects the general improvement now beginning to get under way in both business and industry.

The volume of gain has not assumed large proportions, and very likely will not for some time to come. The interesting and heartening fact of the situation is that change for the better has actually taken place. The expansion will come in due course. The fundamental conditions being sound it can confidently be expected that the growth will be normal and healthy and without partaking of the nature of a boom.

There has been no over production in any commodity which figures largely in industry. The iron and steel stocks, which in the late winter were somewhat in excess of requirements, have been fully liquidated. While there has not yet developed a demand for material increases in production the tendency is in that direction and some enlargement has already taken place.

The zinc has occasioned an increase in the number of coke ovens in blast which will be a stimulus to general business in the Connellsville region.

After the depression which has prevailed for the past six months there is much that is substantial and real in the inclination to compensate those who have patiently waited for a turn in the tide.

DESSO KIRK DILWORTH.
Those persons who were brought into most intimate contact, as fellow workers in his church, his business associations, and his relations as neighbor and friend, can best appreciate the nature and extent of the loss they and their community sustain in the death of DeSSo Kirk Dilworth.

In these and in his family and other relations he constantly and uniformly exhibited those traits and qualities which characterize men who make the principles, precepts and practices of their church, and simplicity of their faith as Christian gentlemen, their rule and guide in all things.

His sincerity and faithfulness in all the capacities in which he served, with loyalty and unchanging devotion to high ideals, and his useful, well ordered life among us make his passing a source of very deep regret to the entire community, but he leaves behind a memory that will be cherished most by those who knew him best.

BOROUGHS AND IMPROVED HIGHWAYS.

Among the avalanches of new bills that will be dumped into the hopper at the next session of the Legislature, it is very probable there will be one dealing with the subject of main highways through boroughs in the state.

In certain quarters strong opposition is developing to the practice of the State Highway Department in dealing with municipalities for the improvement of streets within its original limits which form an integral part of the highway improved and maintained by the state.

The opposition has in part arisen from the fact that many boroughs, not having sufficient resources of their own, have not been able to improve their main streets and the state has not, in all instances manifested a willingness to include those streets in road improvement plans.

The result is that in many of the boroughs are found the worst sections of highway which tourists encounter in their travels through the state.

Another, and perhaps the strongest, objection to the plan of aiding boroughs build roads has arisen from the somewhat pernicious practices of constables and justices of the peace who regard motorists as their legitimate prey and are alert to apprehend and fine them for all kinds of minor infractions of the automobile laws. This activity has often been the cause of justifiable complaint by motorists.

It is being suggested that the situation as a whole be met by locating main highway routes around instead of passing through the corporate limits of boroughs.

This plan, it is further pointed out, will assist in overcoming the situation on the streets of the boroughs by diverting all through traffic to the main highway outside.

It is certain that very vigorous objections will be offered to any suggestion to thus isolate the small towns from the main highways and deprive them of the advantages they now enjoy by reason of their location on these lines of motor travel. Even if the resources of these municipalities are not sufficient to enable them to improve their streets according to modern highway standards, it would be decidedly unfair to debar

LaFolletteism Is Socialism

By FRED R. MARVIN,
Editor Searchlight, Deptar, New York Commercial

"Have Achieved Their Contact."

The Socialists who had their open connection with the candidates of Robert M. LaFollette and Burton K. Wheeler is driving many sincere people who do not know the truth back into their old parties. So recently they have taken up the cry that "LaFollette and Wheeler are not the candidates of the Socialist Party, but, instead, are the candidates of the Conference for Progressive Political Action." But—

The Conference for Progressive Political Action and the Socialist Party of the United States are one and the same thing. The name, Conference for Progressive Political Action, was adopted wholly to deceive the people, and, apparently, for no other purpose.

When the Socialists met in their convention at Detroit, in 1921, they adopted a resolution, instructing the executive committee to make a survey of all radical organizations, with a view of "ascertaining their dispositions and readiness to cooperate with the Socialists on a platform not inconsistent with that of the party."

The survey was made. But when the time came to arrange a meeting to discuss this "cooperation on a platform not inconsistent with that of the Socialist Party," it was evident that to call such a gathering in the name of the Socialist Party would result in keeping out a good many who, while honestly believing they had wrongs to be righted through political action, yet were "not in harmony with the purposes of the Socialist."

So it was, the "call" for this conference went out to all the radical organizations under the name of William Johnston, of the International Workers' Union, a Socialist himself, and once candidate for Governor of Rhode Island on the Socialist ticket.

The call to the radical farmer organization went out through Ben Davis, of the Farmers' National Council, and A. C. Townley, of the Non-Partisan League. Townley served a term in a Minnesota jail for seditious utterances.

This gathering was held in Chicago, February, 1922. There emerged, who has since been formed the Conference for Progressive Political Action, which, however, to judge from the membership of its directing committee, and knowing its origin, is Socialist controlled.

Among those who had a hand in the original Socialist resolution, was Morris Hillquit, an "international Socialist," usually guards his language, so that his real purpose is concealed. But on returning to New York from the gathering where the Socialist Party was submerged into the Conference for Progressive Political Action, he has been fully developed a demand for material increase in production which can confidently be expected that the growth will be normal and healthy and without partaking of the nature of a boom.

Under the deceptive name of the Conference for Progressive Political Action the Socialists "have achieved their contact" with wall meaning farmers and wage-earners, and through this contact will be able to "make the revolution" which will result in either "the dictatorship of the proletariat or a democratic social republic."

new roads around them. Such routes would, in all probability, cost very much more than improvement of the main streets of the small boroughs. The taxpayers of the boroughs would have to pay their share of the cost in either case.

The proposal ignores the principle upon which our highway system as a whole is based, the intent and object being to provide facilities for communication which all the people can enjoy. For that reason alone it is likely to meet with no effective opposition that it will not get far with the legislators, the majority of whom represent constituents living in small towns and in rural communities.

To the degree that it will stimulate the High School football players to greater effort in preparation the loss of their first game ought to be an encouragement, not a discouragement.

It takes more than a drabbing rain to dampen the ardor, enthusiasm and spirit of the citizens of Connellsville and vicinity when they arrange a homecoming celebration.

People on the farms who have chased roosters bearing the same name will understand why the Chinese revolutionaries have trouble in capturing Shanghai.

Partisan Smoke

Reading Tribune

Tobacco, the common leveller, is by way of turning partisan. Or rather, smoking utensils are. General Dawes seems to have started it all, though quite unintentionally. His famous undershirt pipe, by its queerness of design and its ingenious and inexplicable mode of operation, awakened such widespread interest that it was coming to be regarded almost as a party test. That was a challenge to the Democrats and to the state famous alike for Democracy and corn.

A Nebraska citizen therefore sent Governor Bryan a fine specimen of tobacco pipe, with which to offset the "tobacco pipe" of General Dawes, and suggested it as a Democratic emblem. Governor Bryan gratefully accepted it, and although he explains that he has sworn off smoking and doesn't intend to start again, he recommends the model to all fellow-Democrats who have no such scruples.

It is being suggested that the situation as a whole be met by locating main highway routes around instead of passing through the corporate limits of boroughs. This plan, it is further pointed out, will assist in overcoming the situation on the streets of the boroughs by diverting all through traffic to the main highway outside.

It is certain that very vigorous objections will be offered to any suggestion to thus isolate the small towns from the main highways and deprive them of the advantages they now enjoy by reason of their location on these lines of motor travel. Even if the resources of these municipalities are not sufficient to enable them to improve their streets according to modern highway standards, it would be decidedly unfair to debar

FIRE

He would not by a careless word do injury to man. Nor snatches from life one treasure more than bonds of love. And yet he carries through the woods one lovely summer day. He lit his pipe and carelessly he threw the match away!

He knew the havoc fire can cause, he knew this friendly fire. He'd seen at home uncounted times its weight of destruction. Yet still he would not by a word or deed his neighbor wrong. Flung to the woods a lighted match and calmly moved along.

There followed that one careless dead forest's dismal fall. Brave heroes which sheltered pioneers and had their little ones in their arms. Were saved from the hungry flames which only rain could stay. The ruin from one tiny match a man had tossed away.

One may recall the thoughtful word and right the careless deed. But no pipe is likely to man when once it goes astray. And any forest lies today in desolation gray.

CORNER STONE IS LAID FOR MOUNT PLEASANT CHURCH

Rev. Clyde Horst of Windber Principal Speaker at Brethren Ceremony.

OTHER NEWS OF THE DAY

Special to The Courier
MOUNT PLEASANT, Sept. 22.—

The cornerstone of the new Church of the Brethren was laid yesterday afternoon with appropriate services. The sum of $10,000 was pledged and raised during the day. Rev. M. Clyde Horst of Windber made the leading address. Rev. M. J. Brougher of Greensburg also spoke. Rev. A. H. Lepke, pastor of the Methodist Church, and Rev. Robertson of the Baptist Church led in prayer. Edward Wever was the chorus leader. A men's quartet sang. Rev. J. A. Buffenay of Connellsville was present. The cornerstone was laid by the presiding elder, Rev. L. S. Knepper of Windber. Mrs. Frank Cooper and Miss Rose sang a duet. Rev. A. J. Beighley, pastor of the church gave a history of the church. The new church when completed will cost approximately $60,000. It is hoped to get it under roof before cold weather.

Two Birds Elect.

Mrs. Sara Smith entertained at a bridge luncheon at Mountain View Inn on Saturday in honor of Miss Gertrude Mallin. This wedding will be a full event. Fourteen tables will be set up for the play during the afternoon. Guests were present from Johnstown, Ambridge, Uniontown, Scottdale, Greensburg and Connellsville.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. Mildred Davis of Johnstown is the guest of Mrs. William Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Clark of Pittsburgh spent the week-end with Mrs. Clark's mother, Mrs. Ramsey.

Five Billions Concealed in Tax-Free Securities

DETROIT, Sept. 22.—Five billion dollars a year at least of the incomes of the richest men in the United States are concealed in tax exempt securities, declared A. W. Frye, in a meeting of insurance investment directors here.

More than three hundred incomes of a million dollars or more a year in the United States are revealed by the tax returns just made public for the fiscal year. Although only sixty-seven incomes of a million dollars and up are in the tax reports, said Mr. Frye. "The record number," he said, "is $1,000,000,000 of income for the whole Sandusky in ten millions of the United States was reported by 6,737,412 persons. That leaves more than 36,000,000 wage and salary earners paying no income tax. The entire income of the United States is estimated at $65,000,000,000."

"Income totaling approximately $65,000,000,000 a year is untaxed in the United States."

Alexandrian Phareos

Phareos was the name of an island in the harbor of Alexandria. His Phareos I, who had been one of the generals of Alexander the Great, decided to build a gigantic lighthouse. The work was finally completed during the reign of Ptolemy Philadelphus. The structure was 450 feet high and 100 feet square at the base. At the summit was kept a beacon fire which, according to the historian Josephus, could be seen over forty miles away. Part of this famous lighthouse was thrown down in the eighth century. The ruin was completed by earthquakes in 1000 and 1046.

Dog Seizes His Mistress

Paul Jarvis, 21, of Matamoras, Pa., one stripe, with paraply white paws, has been in the mountains since Saturday. On the other day, he found his master, who was wrong with his mistress, who was unconscious and, by mistake, had been attracted after being pelted. It was necessary to get the woman's hand above the dog's mouth so as not to touch his mistress. Mrs. Turbold was carried to the hospital, where an anesthetized physician was waiting. Mrs. Turbold was released.

MAIL CARRIERS BATTLE DEATH

Many Unsung Heroes Die While in Performance of Duty to U.S.

Washington.—Uncle Sam has his heroes in peace time as well as in war. Records of bravery and of heroism equal to the deeds of our fighting patriots who have faced shot and shell or an enemy country are not lacking among the army of employees of the United States government.

While the hardships encountered and the loss of life are not so great in numbers as those recorded in actual warfare, nevertheless they bear mute testimony to the valiant service rendered by these faithful servants of the people best performing the difficult tasks assigned them.

And the greatest of these heroes are not sung by author-praise or poetry. They are not breasted on monuments or decorated with medals of honor bestowed on them for decoration of any kind awaits them. There is not even so much as a citation for bravery and meritorious service performed in the line of duty.

But these faithful employees of Uncle Sam never complain. They are not seeking notoriety. They are content to carry on their daily labors without thought of reward other than that which comes with the consciousness of duty fulfilled.

Makes Fast Time on Ice.

Carry Difficult Mail Route.

"From here to Sandusky in ten miles in a direct line and I go there when conditions are good. At other times I go to Marblehead, which is four miles away and the nearest point on mainland. I have sailed these four miles over smooth ice in 30 minutes. I have made the same distance in eight hours. When the ice is bad, when the ice was about an inch and half thick and I had to break my way over foot of the four miles. At other times I have been covered with icebergs 20 to 30 feet high and I have had to travel 15 miles in a roundabout course to reach Marblehead."

The chief used to deliver the mail to these points on Lake Erie is a combination sailboat, rowboat, ice yacht and sled.

The star route from Elliston Bay, the northernmost post office in the Door county peninsula, to Detroit Harbor, Wis., is one that is covered by car entirely by water, crossing the famous passage called "Death's Door."

Winter Period Dangerous.

During the months when navigation is open—that is, from May 1 to November 1—carrying the mail on this route is comparatively safe enough, and free from difficulties. It is during the winter period, however, from November 1 to May 1, that the sea is more than a man's able job on his hands.

Let the postmaster at Detroit Harbor tell his own tale.

"The chief difficulty encountered while crossing Death's Door in winter," he says, "is drifting ice fields."

The ice bridge that forms in extremely cold weather hardly ever remains for more than a few days at a time. It is speedily dismembered by shifting gales and currents. Sometimes this breakup occurs so suddenly that the carrier is caught out on the ice with his horse, sleigh and mail. It is at these times that the proximity of the United States coast guard station at Plum Island is of great assistance.

One such incident took place some few years ago. The breaker came while the carrier was transporting the mail to this side of the ice with horse and sleigh. The ice became so thoroughly broken up that in a very short time the carrier found himself on an ice cake barely large and heavy enough to hold him and his equipment.

"The coast guard crew, having noticed his plight, came to the rescue.

They succeeded in getting a line out to the carrier and then towed the whole cake over to the solid ice and the carrier was enabled to walk on to more solid ice and thereby reach the main land."

Records of the Post Office department show that among the most dangerous and difficult routes served by regular carriers and star route contractors are those extending from New York to Ossipee, N.H.; Rocky Bay to Rock Harbor, Wis.; Rocky Bay to Atlanta, Idaho, and from Sandusky to Kelleys Island, Middle Bass and Put-in-Bay.

On the Rocky Bar-Atlanta (Idaho) route, the service is performed in the winter season by carriers traveling in snowshoes, packing 60 pounds of mail.

Not infrequently carriers on this route have been caught in snowstorms and swept to death. Only a year or two ago a carrier lost his life in this way.

During the spring there is extremely difficult and hazardous to carry on the service. A number of carriers have been buried alive in endeavoring to transfer the mail.

Carriers Face Ice Peril.

The route from Elliston Bay to Detroit Harbor, Wis., and from Sandusky, Ohio, to nearby islands must be operated over the ice in the winter and in the fall when the lake is frozen.

Religious Liberty
Essence of Freedom
Catholics Are Told

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The essence of freedom, President Coolidge told an audience of delegates to the Holy Name Society convention here Sunday, is "civic, political, and religious liberty," "religious" declared in the fundamental law of the land.

"Our constitution," he declared, "guarantees it fully, completely, and adequately."

Mr. Coolidge then emphasized that the constitution also proves "no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States."

"I do not say that we, as citizens, have always held ourselves to a proper observance of these standards toward each other," he continued, "but we have nevertheless established them and declare our duty to be obedient to them. This is the American ideal of ordered liberty under the law. It calls for rigid discipline."

The President went into a thorough exposition of his theory of American government in the address. The government, he said, was the result of "any effort to establish institutions under which the people as a whole should have the largest possible advantages."

"Class and privilege," he asserted, "freedom and opportunity were guaranteed America and not going to abandon its principles or desert its ideals."

The Paramount

"ONE LAW FOR WOMEN"—A thrilling melodrama of a mining town with Cullen Landis and Mildred Harris in the leading roles, is on view today and tomorrow at the Paramount. Ben Martin, a young mining engineer, goes to New York City to obtain a lease on the Oliver Gold Mine at Rawhides, Colorado, from Brennan, who owns the property. When the lease is signed Brennan tricks Martin by substituting an option for what purports to be a carbon copy of the lease.

At the boarding house conducted by Phillips Davis, a bawdique housekeeper, Martin meets Polly Barnes and her younger sister, Nellie, whose ill health demands western climate. Polly's uncle is negotiating for the sale of their home upstairs so that the girls may go west.

Ben returns to Rawhides where Brennan is boss of the town. The young mining engineer discovers the lost vein which means a fortune for him. When the news becomes known the sheriff presents a writ of ouster and reveals to Ben that the paper which he supposed was a lease and which he filed with the recorder of deeds is in reality an option. Ben finds Brennan in his saloon and demands the real lease. He thrashes Brennan and in the general fight is attacked by a half-breed with a gun. The revolver is discharged and the half-breed falls wounded. Ben believing he has killed the man and knowing that in this camp he could not obtain a fair trial flees.

The Soisson

"THE YANKEE CONSUL"—With Douglas MacLean in the leading role, is the feature picture today, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Soisson.

Douglas MacLean enacts the title role of a rich young New Yorker who seeking excitement from a life of ease, indolence and humdrum, enters into a wager that he can hold down a menial form of labor for a stipulated time.

A pretty woman crosses his path and then there was a case of love registered at first sight. The scene changes from New York to South America, where MacLean, as Dudley Alnsworth, is hailed as the "Yankee Consul." Much against his protests, he accepts the honor and becomes embroiled in some ticklish local situations.

He impersonates the Yankee Consul and is once caught in a situation that threatens to expose him from a state of embarrassing conditions. He finally calls on the navy to help him out and in the end he wins the girl of his dreams.

Patty Ruth Miller, well known in film circles, a comedy actress, plays the principal feminine role.

The Orpheum

"THE ARAB," which opened today at the Orpheum for a three day attraction, presents Ramon Novarro and Alice Terry in the leading roles.

Novarro has the greatest opportunity of his career and he seizes it with a zest that sweeps all before him. There is no more fascinating actor than this young Mexican who conquered America with an insolent twirl of his monocle. "The Prisoner of Zenda," and, as, "The Arab," he never looked more handsome, nor acted with greater fire and force.

Miss Terry looks lovelier than ever as the heroine. The blonde wig that she wore in all of her previous pictures has been discarded and she appears for the first time on the screen in her natural dark-tinted bobbed hair. She rises to moments of enormous emotional appeal in the scene of the massacre, and she was never more alluring than in her love scenes with Mr. Novarro.

Mr. Ingram's direction is unusually tight in every detail, and the photography, credit to John F. Seitz, is a masterpiece of screen art.

To those persons who enjoy a little more than just plain hokum, and want to see a real thriller set in the actual locale of the story, "The Arab" is sure to be one of the most entertaining pictures of the year. It has story, stars, director and backgrounds—nothing could be nicer, and nothing is.

"The Yankee Consul," featuring Douglas MacLean, will be shown Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The Arcade

Beginning with Monday matinees the Arcade Theatre will house one of the best musical shows of the season in the Clarke Sisters Revue. Their opening attraction will be the Beauty Doctors, a playlet constructed for laughing purposes only if the advance advertising is correct. The company consists of 20 people and carry their own jazz band, in addition to some very talented singers and dancers. The Clarke Sisters of course are the featured artists. Little Mary Clarke is billed as the wonder violinist and lives up to that reputation. She plays some very wonderful numbers. A special feature is the six Scottish dancers. Alice Molvin, the prima donna, will be heard to advantage in several well selected numbers. The chorus of 10 pretty and talented girls will give a good account of themselves. The Jack Dempsey picture, his latest, "A Society Knockout," will be shown in conjunc-

PRINCE BEATS NEW YORK BOOKMAKERS.

Having a hurried visit to the Belmont Park Race Track on Long Island, the Prince of Wales got even for a previous encounter with bookmakers when he placed a bet of $600 on Doctress, J. H. Walker's steed. The horse won at good odds, as can easily be seen by the smiling faces of the Prince and Mr. Walker as they hurried from the track after the race.

West Va. Farmers Co-operating in Raising Potatoes

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 22.—Largely as a result of cooperative growing and co-operative marketing stimulus is being given to the production of potatoes in West Virginia. For many years it has imported its potatoes, but with certified seed potatoes being used the product and the grade is becoming such that the state is increasing the crop for its own use and for shipment to other states.

The West Virginia Potato Growers Cooperative Association is an important factor in marketing the product and it is said that only the best grades are shipped. The organization consists of farmers in about 14 counties of the state, and it expects to control 100,000 bushels, or 250 cars, this year, 65 cars already having been sold.

Almost 750,000 School Teachers in the U. S.

The total number of public-school teachers in the United States in 1923 is estimated by the Bureau of Education to have been 729,426. This estimate does not include superintendents, supervisors, and principals.

Forty-three per cent of these teachers, or approximately 313,806, are classed as rural teachers. In this classification rural is interpreted to include open country, country villages, and towns not maintaining independent city systems.

Then he looked at her white face and read the fear in it. "If you tell me to stay, I'll say," he said.
"And the patient?" whispered Joan.
"Oh, no. Of course I should say nothing could keep me from going."

Joan felt the need of speech with him irresistibly. She did not mean to cross-examine him, she only wished to shake off the feeling that Lancaster had passed out of her reach, by speaking to one of his associates. She hardly knew the purpose of her accosting Jenkins until she saw the look of concern upon his face.

"Miss Wentworth, you aren't well?" he exclaimed. "You have been crying, I see!"

"No. Doctor Jenkins, but—Doctor Lancaster has gone back to Avonmouth." "Yes, Miss Wentworth. But he won't come to any harm there, thanks to you. You've taught me a thing or two about morphine pallients, Miss Wentworth," he went on. In his polite, complimentary fashion, "I never saw anyone get well as fast as Doctor Lancaster, nor any man that could handle a situation as you did," he added.

"Yes, but it was not really morphine, you know," said Joan, and then she almost gasped in astonishment. What had she said? Why had she said it?

Doctor Jenkins was startled at how soon. "Not morphine, you say, Miss Wentworth?" he stammered.

"I mean, the symptoms weren't those of morphine poisoning," said Joan.

"Oh, well, Miss Wentworth, everybody takes it in a different way," he answered. "To me, I see it was morphine right enough. They wouldn't put the wrong label on the bottles. You certainly did see things happening, Miss Wentworth," he added, laughing and raising his hat.

"Well, Joan, I think he is," said Lancaster reluctantly. "But he may not be. I only know that the message was not from him."

"It was not from the hospital? Not from Macpherson?"

"It was from a man connected with the hospital," said Lancaster. "But it was not from Macpherson and not Mrs. Myers. And he did not mention Myers' name. Why, I don't know, you can't give way to surmises now, that I am losing mine. It is a simple request for me to operate tomorrow."

She pulled herself together. "Of course you must go, John," she said again. She put her arms about his neck. "Dear, if you should need a man, you will not fall into any trap that he may set for you?" she asked. "You are so strong, you will not let him trample on you? You are yourself again, and you will remain so for my sake?"

"Never fear," he answered cheerfully. "I am not going to take morphine again. Why, I shall have none with me, my dear Joan, and I should have no opportunity to buy any, even if I wanted to. I shall operate, perhaps as soon as I reach the hospital, and return on the morning train; I may not even go to my house at all."

"I am not afraid that you will take morphine," said Joan. "But you will not see Myers."

"Not if I can help it. He can't—spite the hospital and I don't think he will dare to be in wait for me at the station. If he does, he'll find a tough customer to kidnap in broad daylight. There, my dear, be calm and sensible, and when I return, I shall tell you everything that you must know."

He kissed her and hurried in to pack his suitcase. He came out in a few moments and placed it in the buggy. "Good-by, Joan, dearest Joan," he said. "And you will not beat at our engagement to Mrs. Fraser while I am gone? I have very special reasons for this."

She shook her head and laughed, and returned his kiss, and all the while her heart grew heavier. And long after the buggy had disappeared from sight she stood upon the porch looking after it.

Chapter IX

That night was sleepless as the last, but all the joy that had filled her heart in the little cabin was gone. She lay awake, listening to the rain that pattered on the roof, thinking and wondering. How strange her life had become! And how far away the old landmarks were! She had fought for them, but the darkness had watched her, like a hawk, and she had run. And now the darkness seemed closing about her again. And she could only hope and wait through endless hours.

In vain she tried to tell herself that it was only an ordinary summer. On the face of it the call was natural; but Jones' last words told her that there was more behind it. Myers had not surrendered his power so easily as he had assumed to do. And Lancaster had been generous—to spare her, perhaps, but evasive. And her time now was but to wait.

At eight o'clock she imagined that he must have ended the operations once and for all, and be at the station, or on his way home, but her heel could not get out of his across the old camp, and they had continued separated. As yet she had not seen him again.

"CAF" STUDIESTH' WORST EVER!*FLORIDA CENTENARY WILL BE CELEBRATED*Historical Pageants at Tallahassee Set for November.

Tallahassee, Fla.—This the capital city of Florida, is making preparations for a centennial celebration during the week of November 10-15, marking the one hundredth anniversary of the state as a legislative unit.

The history of that new part of the plan for the celebration, and the events that will occur in the year 1821 in the history of the United States. In 1821 Gen. Andrew Jackson, without authority from congress, but according to belief that has been given expression, with tacit consent of the cabinet, in Washington, invaded Florida, then Spanish territory.

He marched with 8,000 men from Fort Gaines, on the Apalachicola river, to St. Marks, in Wakulla county, raised the American flag, hanged two leading Indians, and two British subjects.

The final stage of the battle has been won. There was one spot on Major's left leg that refused to heal. Dr. Julian Hart of the hospital staff performed an operation known as "pinch grafting" and Major soon will return home.

Do Ducks Swim With Wings?

Do ducks use their wings while swimming under water? The question is frequently among sportsmen and nature students, and opinions sometimes differ. Testimony of reliable authorities supports the belief that various species of ducks and geese, loons and other diving birds do not use their wings when swimming beneath the surface for food or in trying to escape capture, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. A reddish duck was observed at Lake Michigan which was swimming in a series of clear water. As it got well started on its downward plunge, the wings, about two-thirds extended, were used in quick, short strokes, at the rate of about one second, to assist in propelling it and in rising to the top as well.

Catherine Bush

Medical students have seldom recorded as rare a case of longevity as that of Catherine Bush, who died in Philadelphia on May 1, 1817, at the age of one hundred and eleven years and eleven months. So far is it known Catherine Bush has lived on the outskirts of Philadelphia all her life, and no one was particularly interested in her until she reached the age of one hundred, having been a very frail girl. When she passed the one-hundred-year mark, physicians began to watch her. They kept up their watching for nearly twelve years. It was Catherine Bush's greatest desire, when she felt the end coming, to round out one hundred and twelve years. She failed to do it by one month.—Chicago Journal.

Traced to Archimedes

The word "Eureka" is said to have been uttered by Archimedes (287-212 B.C.), the Greek philosopher, when the principle of specific gravity first dawned upon him. It is said that the thought first came to him while in the bath, and that he fled half-clad through the streets of Syracuse to his home, shouting, "I have found it!" I have found it!" The problem that had been gnawing him to solve was to determine whether a golden crown, doubtless whether a golden crown, fit for Nero, king of Syracuse, had been alloyed with silver. This the king had suspected, and the philosopher afterwards proved it to be true.

Race for Miscreants

During the contest between Charles I and his parliament, he was fondly of the idea that the church people should accept the church people to give

Scripture names to their children, and sometimes the name would consist of a phrase, or even an entire verse. One child was actually named "We Comforth Us In All Our Tribulation,

That We May Be Able To Comfort

Them Which Are In Any Trouble

With the Comfort Wherewith We Ourselves Are Comforted." Tichbourne.

And what do you suppose the kids dubbed him when he started to school? "Trib."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Frog That Liked Eggs

A little girl who studies birds made the discovery that a frog will eat a blackbird's eggs, the London Morning

Post reports. She found a low-built nest with two pugs one having a small hole at the big end. Next day she found a frog on the nest; its tongue licking in and out of the hole. "Either the noise of the grass under my feet, or the gash I let out," she relates in a kind of affidavit, "frightened the frog away." On the third day she found both the eggs with holes and empty.

Unlike toads, frogs boast teeth, but are not usually reckoned among egg thieves.

CONSTITUTION DAY OBSERVED AT SCOTTDALE

Woods N. Carr Principal Speaker at Supper Given by Knights of Columbus.

GOOD MUSICAL PROGRAM

SCOTTDALE Sept. 22.—A special supper was held at St. John's Hall on Saturday evening by the Knights of Columbus, Council 1187, to celebrate Constitution Day. The hall was beautifully decorated in the K of C colors, purple and white, with American flags predominating. Covers were laid for 100. After the supper, which was served by the social committee for the month of September, a program was given. Woods N. Carr of Uniontown spoke on "The Constitution of the United States"; Major John J. Kennedy on "The Duties of the Members to the Constitution"; and Attorney J. Regis Byrne on "Conditions in Europe." Mr. Byrne, who has just returned from Europe, has been admitted to the Fayette and Westmoreland county bars.

Philip Callahan of Uniontown sang Irish melodies and his daughter gave several violin and piano duets. Mr. Callahan was accompanied by Miss Lillian Byrne, Joseph Skorger of Mount Pleasant sang several solo songs. George Lewis gave readings. Rev. N. A. Lambeth made the closing address. John A. Boyle presided and was toastmaster.

The committee in charge were John A. Boyle, chairman; T. J. Murphy, the secretary; James J. Keegan, M. W. Kerns, Albert Beckman, Joseph Boyle, Joseph Cafferty, John Ames, James Donahue, E. F. Dooley, Patrick Hickey, P. J. O'Connor, Victor Pisca, Walter Carstek, John Duzan, John Slatko, Joe Killany, Joseph O'Hara, Felix McEvily, James McKenna, Bernard Clark, Edward Flannery, James Hickey, Edward S. McKeon and Frank McCulligan. Teachers Assisted.

The teachers and officers of the First Baptist Sunday School held a meeting and supper at the church at 9:15 on Friday evening. Reports of the delegations to the Sunday school convention were given. This was followed by the business session during which the grading of the Sunday school was taken up and teachers were assigned to their places to take up their duties October 1. Mrs. Alex Taylor has resigned as primary superintendent and Mrs. Arthur Snyder was chosen to take her place. Miss Elsie Stoco was chosen to take Mrs. Snyder's class. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Snyder were chosen delegates to the state Sunday school convention at Washington. Supper was served by Mrs. Percy and Mrs. Snyder assisted by Superintendent Rose and Assistant Superintendent Brooks. Autumn Tea.

Wednesday afternoon from 3:30 until 5 o'clock the Ladies' Bible Class will give an autumn tea in the Methodist Episcopal Church for the aid of the church. There will be an interesting program.
